

Book sharing is arriving

Pubblicato: Venerdì 18 Gennaio 2013

"Here you take it, there you leave it, take the book you want from the baskets of shops in keeping with the initiative and then leave it at the nearest shop." This is the invitation from the municipality administrator, for people of Buguggiate or those passing through, from 1st of February it will be possible to find, in 5 shops for now, baskets full of books available for public consumption.

The Book in Tour has been presented during the event "Meeting with the Author" with the writer Massimiliano Comparin, native of Buguggiate, the same writer has been promoter for BOOK SHARING when he decided to "expand" his first successful work "I Cento Veli", presented during the evening event.

In fact, 500 copies of this detective book have been distributed to people for free, with the only aim to receive feedback. In this evening all sorts of people have joined, among who there were Alessandro Vedani and the writer Carlo Alfieri.

The cultural advisor Alessandra Bertoni concluded the evening with great satisfaction, ready to continue the cultural meetings in March with Sergio Cova, a writer of our area too.
