

Italy change kit

Pubblicato: Martedì 4 Marzo 2014

The “Azzurri” have worn their new shirt. FIGC (Italian Football Federation) and Puma today have unveiled the new Home and Away kit of Italy for the World Cup 2014 that will be worn for the first time in the friendly against Spain in Madrid Wednesday, 5th March.

And throughout the morning in Malpensa, inside the Hotel Sheraton, there was a bustle of footballers and fans waiting for the press conference of the coach Prandelli.

Protagonist, the new "azzurra", a shirt that combines performance and design incorporating the most innovative Puma technologies. With a mesh design that is inspired by the tradition Italian craftwork, with a tailored look, a slim fit and the collar and buttons "made to measure".

To present it there were the coach Cesare Prandelli, FIGC Vice-President Demetrio Albertini, Stefano Caroti (chief commercial officer of Puma), team captain Buffon with his deputy Parkinson and some of the players of the national team, including the Marco Parolo from Gallarate (yesterday in goal with Parma) deployed in the front row even in this day of presentation.
