Pubblicato: Giovedì 3 Maggio 2018

With the award ceremony for the “25 April 1945” School Award, organised by Varese Town Council, celebrations began this morning for the 73rd anniversary of the Liberation.

Over 500 people, including children and parents, took part in the event, which took place in the Great Hall of Insubria University.

Until 28 April, there will be events organised in Varese to celebrate 25 April, when there will be a procession along the streets, ending in the Council Chamber of Palazzo Estense, one of the symbolic places in the town, a sign of the great importance that Varese Council gives to the celebrations.

This morning, Saturday 21 April, pupils from classes 3, 4 and 5 of the primary schools in Varese who stood out because of their commitment to, and active participation in the life of the town, received the “25 April 1945” School Award. The event was attended by the Mayor of Varese, Davide Galimberti, the Councillor for Education Services, Rossella Dimaggio, several councillors, including Francesca Ciappina, Luca Paris and Alessandro Pepe, the Mayor of Lozza, Giuseppe Licata, and for the partisan associations (ANPI-FIVL-FIAP), Luigi Grosso “Cin”, Stella Bolaffi, Ester De Tommasi, Claudio Macchi and the university researcher and lecturer Antonio Orecchia. The event was also accompanied by the IQBAL Choir, of the Don Rimoldi Institute – IV Novembre School.

“It’s a great pleasure to see this room so full,” Mayor Galimberti said. “We’re starting the celebrations of the anniversary of the Liberation in the best way, and with large participation.” The Mayor then addressed the children present, also referring to the original text of the resolution that established the “25 April 1945” School Award. “The award you are receiving today is not just for your achievement in your studies, for which I compliment you, but it is also a mark of responsibility that each of us has in being an example, always maintaining those values of liberty and respect for the Constitution and for democracy that unite us as a society and as citizens.”

Councillor Dimaggio also addressed the children present in the room, when she read the memoir of a partisan during wartime. “The award that you are receiving today was established in 1947, with the intention of passing down to later generations the memory of those who fell during the resistance and their acts of heroism,” she explained. “This award is full of meaning, as it reminds us of how important it is always to work to maintain our values, especially today as we remember the days of the Liberation, and every day in our actions.”
