

New Carabinieri barracks, the construction work restarts

Pubblicato: Mercoledì 12 Dicembre 2018

The construction work is restarting to complete the new Carabinieri barracks in Induno Olona, which for years has had in its main body completed, but it is awaiting the last work, the provision of the staff housing.

On Wednesday 12, at 11 a.m., with a brief ceremony the Public Work Superintendent will officially hand over the assignment to the company subcontracted for the last construction lot and then the construction site can finally reopen.

In order to stress the importance of the present period, the City Council will be in attendance: “Finally,” says the Mayor of Induno Olona Marco Cavallin, “we can remove the protest banner that has been on the railing of the barracks for a year and a half to remember that Induno Olona has been waiting for twenty years for the arrival of the Carabinieri.”

di Translated by Ileano Menga (Reviewed by Prof. Robert Clarke)